THOMAS FOTHERGILL, D. D. Vice-Chancellor or Commiſſary of the Univerſity of Oxford, To all to whom the Knowledge of theſe Preſents ſhall come, Greeting.

WHEREAS JAMES KEMP, a privileged Perſon of our Univerſity aforeſaid, Innholder, is by our Authority diſcommoned for the Space of ſix Months, for denying the Privileges of the Univerſity, and it's Juriſdiction over him; and, in conſequence, for forcibly oppoſing, inſulting, and impeding the Proctor in the Execution of his Office: Theſe are therefore to notify to all matriculated Perſons of the ſaid Univerſity, to abſtain from all Commerce with the ſaid James Kemp for the Time above limited, as they will anſwer for the Contrary at their Peril.

December 3. 1773.

THO. FOTHERGILL,

Vice-Chancellor.
